Jerome Teacher Given Credit In Early Hot Lunch Program

Editor, Times-News:
We are grateful to Jerome recently for the pleasure of an afternoon visit to the city's elder teachers. As a result, and was much appreciated to her account of the history of the hot-lunch program in Jerome. The plan had its inception at the first Plains schools in the winter of 1923-24 which was a winter of unusually cold weather. Children were being transported by covered hacks and no one could afford to heat their own homes. A resourceful teacher, Mrs. Egan, principal of the then Jerome school, decided that something must be done to alleviate the situation of these children. At a meeting of her associate teachers and a plan was suggested. The plan was to have a hot lunch for the children at the school house. Mrs. Bridgman recalls with pleasure the service at Elba. Here was a three-room school and a young man as principal. He had a vacant room used for storage. This he cleaned up as a dining room. Children were seated at a long table at which some child was head or hostess and they were being given lessons in table manners, after dinner speeches, short programs, etc. By this time the WPA program was furnishing surplus foods and Mrs. Ely could not see why Almo and Elba, milk areas, called for milk. No one milked those range cows.

Controversial Measures Get "Must" Label

WASHINGTON, July 26 (AP)—House leaders have put a "must" label on a multi-million-dollar legislative package that seems likely to touch off a fight that could delay Congress' adjournment.

Democratic Leader John W. McCormack of Massachusetts has applied for action on bills for a two-million-dollar housing bill, distaste for area aid, social security liberalization and regulation of labor relations and pension funds.

House Easy Adjustment Committee Chairman McCormack told the floor that the measures reach the floor now is no reason why the house will not be ready to adjourn by the end of the session.

But there was belief that this early date may be overoptimistic in view of probable controversies now brewing.

A roadblock already has been set in the house rules committee against clearance of the controversial public works bill, which is called "another WPA boom" by some. It would make low-cost public works available for almost any type of public works project.

House Rules Committee Chairman McCormack also faces new housing proposals. The cost of more than $1 billion dollars, plus controversial federal programs, will provide strong opposition.

The housing bill is scheduled to be approved by the house banking committee Thursday. Among other things, it would extend government mortgage insurance to commercial loans, and set up housing programs for children and elderly and for farms.

We, the Women

By RUTH MILLETT
NEA Service

Any wife who thinks her husband doesn't spend as much time at home as he could ought to ask herself a few questions.

One: Is our home as neat, attractive, comfortable and restful as we can make it?

Two: Would I be ashamed if company found me looking like this usually, long when my husband comes home from work? If you don't make an effort to look as well for your husband as you do for others, you are making a mistake.

Three: When my husband is at home for an evening is there anything more stimulating for him to do than sit until bedtime watching TV? Part of any homemaker's job is seeing that a home affords refreshing recreation—hobbies, games, music, entertaining friends, projects for fixing up the house and yard.

Four: When my husband comes home do I have anything to talk to him about besides household problems, the children, small annoyances and petty gossip? If not, chances are you aren't leading any life of your own. A woman who reads, keeps up with local and national affairs and does some community work has plenty of interesting things to talk about.

Five: Am I a good listener and do my husband know that his ideas are always welcome in his own home? If not, a man who is socially and geographically bound to try a find companionship in clubs and organizations.

No wife has ever been able to tag a husband into spending more time at home. But many a woman has managed to make a man give his own home to any other place.

Care of Your Children

By ANGELO PATRI
Of course, all children want to play. It is time to go back to the city—they remember that they have no place for the pet and turn him loose. Nothing could be so cruel as that. A dependent, living creature who has been taught to look to his people for food and care and affection is suddenly alone—friendless and bewildered. Every September we pick them up off the roadside where some heartless people have dropped them. Shame be on them for such cruelty.
If a pet is borrowed from the home for summer time, take him back when the time is over. Find a home for him. Just be plain direct. And give a pet only to a child who can and who will attend to him.

Cleanliness First For Care of Skin

By ALICIA HART
NIA Beauty Editor
There are two important beauty "musts" in skin care.
The first is that a woman always should use fresh powder puffs, towels and washcloths. The second is that she should always apply make-up to a clean face, never over stale make-up.
The importance of clean powder puffs cannot be overemphasized. Women who are otherwise completely fastidious seem to think nothing of using the same puff over and over again, rubbing and scrubbing on powder with it. They are, of course, only rubbing dirt into their pores, inviting blackheads, pimples and muddy skin.
If you find it difficult to remember to buy new puffs, keep a box of cotton balls handy and use each one out after a single use. Putting more make-up over stale make-up can result in only one thing: more skin troubles.
Always remove all make-up, even lipstick, before you apply fresh rouge, powder and lipstick.

BRVES SWEEP DOUBLE BILL FROM MAGIC VALLEY 5-0 AND 9-0

Four Busloads of Boise Fans Enjoy Twin Cowboy Loss

The Magic Valley Cowboys, getting back to work after a four-day layoff, took it on the chin twice Sunday night from the Boise Braves, losing the opener of a doubleheader 5-0 and going under in the nightcap 9-0. Only the second loss affected the current Cowboy standing, however, since the first game was a makeup contest and was charged against the standings for the first half of the split Pioneer league season.

The Cowboys looked like they were still on a layoff for the first 10 minutes they played, straggling goose eggs across the bottom half of the scoreboard and playing listless ball in the field.

They began waking up in the fourth inning of the nightcap and the second of a wild doubleheader in the fifth and sixth, but it was too late.

It was a glorious night for the four busloads of Boise fans, 150 in all, who journeyed to Twin Falls for their annual outing. The Magic Valley team in the crowd of 1,000 had little to cheer about until catcher Aaron Briggs batted long single in the fourth inning of the final game to score Mike Yarnchuk, who had walked in the first three innings off the offerings of losing pitcher Pinky Miller.

Briggs had come back in the third from three Cowboy errors in the first inning. Briggs scored five runs in that game, all unearned.

They made it 7-0 in the second on a double by manager Bill Smith, who hit a home run in the third, the third they scored another on three successive singles.

Briggs managed to lead the team from third base to the mound in the fourth inning to replace Lynn Williams, who had walked and scored. He gave up the final run to the visitors in the seventh, lining on a walk to turn back Dick Jones, who had scored the runner all the way from first.

In the fifth inning, Magic Valley brought the crowd to life when they walked and Gary Smith, Cowboy shortstop, celebrated his 21st birthday anniversary with a two-run homer.

Again in the sixth the home team had the fans on their feet when they scored three runs. Gary Smith led off the inning with his fourth hit of the night. Briggs got the second single and then, moving Fitchel to second, then Wilson slatted a single over the shortstop. Fitchel came in when the ball got to the left fielder and Wilson went to second.

Woody Rich was called in to replace Briggs, the Braves' pitcher, and he scored three runs with a single, sending Wilson to third, from where he scored on a ground-out.

In the first game Cliff Jones pitched a slick five-inning and blanked the Cowboys.

Boles got a single run in the second when Garofalo singled and moved around to score on a ground ball and two more singles.

That was all Jones needed, but his mates gave him a little more runs in the sixth when Garofalo slatted a three-run homer and Rafael Gomez blasted a solo shot over the flaps in left-center.

Donny was the losing pitcher for the Cowboys.

The Braves and the Cowboys met in another "doubleheader" game at 7 p.m. today, with the pitching axes of the two teams, Charles Herberger for Magic Valley and John Helmer for Magic Valley, scheduled as probable pitchers in the first game.

Garry Tomlin, Magic Valley, and Jackie Boles, are probable pitchers for the second.

Game of Tag for Antelope

Tagging antelope fawns is easy if you can catch the little fellows on the ground and keep them there, but the race is over if the fawn gets a head start. The Idaho fish and game department utilizes a crew of several men to spot and guide a "tagger" by "radio" to within netting distance of the animal. The tagging program is part of a federal aid program to obtain information on migration routes of antelope herds. (Official and game department photo)

Yankees Jump on Cleveland to Boost League Lead to 15½ Games

Bill Skowron drove in four runs with a pair of singles Saturday as the New York Yankees rolled to their seventh straight triumph 6-3 over the Cleveland Indians. The victory boosted the Yankees' American-league lead to 15½ games—their biggest margin since the season began.

The Yankees led 4-3 going into the ninth but turned on the power for four runs with six singles and a walk off relief pitchers Don Mossi and Morrie Martin, both left-handers. Art Ditmar, third New York pitcher who hurled the first 2½ innings, started the ninth inning with a single to center. Hank Bauer and Al McGuire followed with singles to left and center. Mickey Mantle was walked to force in one run and Skowron singled a single through the middle for two more. Elston Howard hit a home run.

The Chicago White Sox, paced by the lefty third baseman, Hal Rice, and Jim Landis, kayped previously unbeaten Boston right-hander Joe Delock Saturday and rolled to an 11-6 victory behind a 15-run attack.

Unbeaten since last August and holder of a 3-0 record, Delock was knocked out in a five-run fifth. He had won 13 straight since Aug. 24, 1957.

The victory put Chicago to within two and one-half games of second-place Boston.

Lollar drove in three runs with his 13th homer, a single and a double and scored three times. Rivers clubbed his fifth homer with two on in the fifth and Landis tripled on a pair in the same inning.

The Detroit Tigers ended a five-game losing streak Saturday by beating the Washington Senators 1-0 behind rookie pitcher Herb Mordak, first American league pitcher to win his 11th career.

Kalene drove home three runs with his 11th homer, a single and a double.

The side-arming Mordak, who won one game in a brief 1955 stint with the Senators, had little trouble with the lively Senators.

The Tigers knocked out Washington starter John Romano in four innings. Kalene hit a solo homer in the fifth and then drove in two of Detroit's four runs in the seventh.

Lefty Jack Harman hit a home run for the Senators Saturday night but had to have pitching help from Billy Loes and Digger O'Dell in the eighth and ninth before the Orioles made off with a 4-3 victory over the Kansas City Athletics.

Harman, who earned his pitching record at 8-8, had held the Athletics to six hits going into the final inning with the score 4-2 for Baltimore.

USPETS PATRIZIA, SWITZERLAND, July 26 (UPI)—Belgian's Mike Davies scored the 11-9-6, 6-4, used over Budget Party of Los Angeles and Paris yesterday in a quarter-final round of the 1958 international tennis tournament.

Cubs Tounce Milwaukee 7-4 to Drop Braves Into Tie With Giants for Lead

The Chicago Cubs, backed up by the tuck-sharp relief pitching of Marcelino Solis, hurled 4-hit, shutout ball for 6½ innings, beat the Milwaukee Braves 7-4 Saturday. The loss, coupled with San Francisco's 1-0 decision over Pittsburgh, dropped the Braves into tie with the Giants for the National league lead. Each team has an identical 51-41 record.

A County stadium crowd of 31,450, including Braves' owner Lou Perini, watched the first major league triumph in relief of starter Dick Drott. Solis, a southpaw recently released from Fort Worth, was 1-0.

The loss for the sixth time without a victory was Gene Conley, who pitched six innings, gave up the Cubs first run, Conley eluded Drott for his hit and league homer in the second. Bobby Thomsen hit his 12th for the Cubs.

The Cubs mounted a 20-hit attack against Burdette and Conley, but left 15 base runners high and dry. Tony Taylor, Alvin Dark, Lee and Ernie Banks—the first four hitters in the Cubs' lineup—were the only ones to reach base on hits.

The San Francisco Giants, who had lost their last two starts, lifted the tables on the Pittsburgh Pirates Saturday with a 1-0 victory over the Pirates.

Sanpaw Johnny Antonelli won his 11th victory against eight defeats, but needed help from veteran pitcher Jim Lincecum, who added a sacrifice fly to a 1-0 victory over the Pirates.

Single by Bob Schmidt and Antonelli, a sacrifice and a long fly ball by Willie Kirkland produced the lone run for the Giants in the third.

Antonelli was shaky throughout. He led the team in the first inning, but got Bob Skinner on a fly ball by Billy MacCabe on a grounder.

In the seventh, Magic Valley tied off with a double and moved to the lead. Magic Valley's Billy Virdon on a grounder but was yanked after he walked Bob Clement.

Grassom promptly struck out a rookie home run slugger Dick Stuart. Little Harry Haddick pitched the Cincinnati Reds back into the first division in the tightly-packed National league next Saturday night.

He pitched the league leader, St. Louis Cardinals.

The game before left-handed pitcher had the seven men on the bench. He stopped the top two Cardinals hitters Sam Alton and Ken Boyer, while Kirkland produced the lone run for the Giants in the third.

Washington Leads In Northwest Open

BOISE, July 26 (AP)—A slender Washington amateur, Jim Blakey of Pocatello, who added nine holes Saturday and took the lead in the Northwest golf tournament. Taylor, who was only 31 strokes to suggest the first and at the Plantation golf course, then added nine par-35 for his second.

That gave him a 36-hole score of 124, all the midway point of the tournament.

The performance took the tournament lead away from amateur Jim Blakey of Pocatello, who added a one-under-par 70 to his first round 58—a halfway score of 124.

Blakey, a senior at the University of Washington, had been opening 66 for 127.

Three amateurs and 71 pros were in the 12-hole tournament. They were amateurs Deas Marshall and News Carter, both of Boise, and Jim Blakey of Pocatello, and pro Cliff White of Twin Falls. Bunny Mason of Bismarck, Ore., and Walter Porter of Boise.

George Schenker, pro at Billings, Mont., and Ernie Smith of Billings, were tied at 141. Tied at 142 were pro Bill Eagers of Portland, Ore. Greer of Yakima, Wash., and George B. Brown of California, and Ockie Johnson of Tacoma, Wash., who was winner of the tournament in 1955 and again in 1956. Don Hoffmeyer, Coeur d'Alene pro, and Duke Hickey, Pocatello, were among those tied at 144.

That left 14 players with scores of par or better after 36 holes of the meet. The final 36 holes will be played Sunday on the 6,515-yard course.

Ice Carnival Is Colorful Summer Show of Top Talent at Sun Valley

SUN VALLEY, July 26—Almost 20 years ago Sun Valley had its first informal ice carnival. This year the colorful summer show that is now presented by the Sun Valley Figure Skating association has reached a level of perfection where it is not unusual to hear a spectator compare it with one or another of the famous professional shows.

In the prewar shows almost anyone in the neighborhood who could reasonably be expected to stand up on a four around the ice was enlisted for the chorus numbers. Watching the precision skating of the present chorus, many of the older residents of Ketchikan and Ilwaco will laugh to think of the days when they took part in the shows. Nevertheless, the Russian number in which they circled the ice in colorful costumes and the Courier and Jives tableaux when they duplicated the famous print of skaters on New York City's Central park had great charm.

The show also was not without its stars. Hans Johnson, now head skating instructor at Sun Valley and director of the show, skated a pair number with his brother, John Johnson, that has never been equaled for grace. The dash and fire of Audrey Papp, one of the country's all-time great skaters, is still remembered. Mona Moedi, now married to sociable Bob Topping, was one of the stars of the show, and Herman Martich, now a skating instructor at Sun Valley and one of the stars of today's show, did his famous jumping as early as 1912.

The new Olympic-size rink built in 1956 has added new impetus to skating at the famous Idaho resort, however, many fine skaters, working to pass the skating tests given under the auspices of the United States Figure Skating association, now spend entire summers at Sun Valley and there is no dearth of fine skaters.

Bobby Brewer, a member of the 1958 world's team; DeAnn Bleck, senior ladies champion of the Northwest; Karen Howland, junior ladies champion of the Northwest, are all stars of the show.

Pied Piper of Hamlin Features This Year's Carnival

Highlight of the Sun Valley ice carnival every other week this summer is the Pied Piper of Hamlin number which features Lois Kalkbrenner, Oakland, Calif., as the Pied Piper, and Wood river valley children as mice and children of Hamlin. One of the smallest of the mice, Michelle Kappila, Ketchikan, Alaska here to the call of the Pied Piper. (Sun Valley photo—staff engraving)

Listening to the call of the Pied Piper are the "children of Hamlin," played by youngsters of Wood river valley. The number is scheduled for next Saturday night and is presented only every other week because of the tender years of some of the child participants, particularly those playing parts of mice. Other numbers in the ice carnival feature skaters of all ages, but all of them good. (Sun Valley photo—staff engraving)

Fair, Rodeo Season Near Again for Valley People

The season of livestock, county fairs and rodeos is nearing for Twin Falls. The Twin Falls county fair, rodeo and rodeo are for 4-11 students and FFA members exclusively. One fair has only a rodeo for adults, while several counties sponsor combination fair and rodeo. The fair is from smaller two-day affairs to the larger four-day rodeo at Pocatello.

Thomas Parks, secretary-manager of the Twin Falls county fair, states, "We try to change a little each year so people won't say it's always the same as last year." We try to make a little difference where we can, but there are some things that can't be changed.

Rodeos, Fairs

Aug. 2 and 3—Fairfield amateur rodeo.
Aug. 14-18—Gooding county fair, rodeo.
Aug. 21 to 23—Cassia county fair, rodeo.
Aug. 29 to 30—Lincoln 4-H fair.
Sept. 1—Blaine 4-H fair.
Sept. 1—Minidoka 4-H fair.
Sept. 3 to 6—Twin Falls county fair, rodeo.
Sept. 5 and 6—Cannas 4-H fair.
Sept. 11-13—District 4-H fair at Jerome.

stock structure was completed in 1957. The enormous stock building was started in 1938. Additions were put on in the late forties and early fifties. Parks drew the plans, but the actual construction was done by contract. However, the newest building at the grounds was built by Parks and three other men.

The shed which housed machinery in past years at the Twin Falls fairgrounds has been razed this summer. Parks' crew also saved the building a new roof. Parks has supervised several other improvement projects this summer. He helped pour a new floor in the swine barn and 100 feet of sidewalk in front of the new building near the rodeo grandstands.

Two projects still taking much time are repairing of the rodeo chutes and replacing wooden posts under the grandstands with steel ones. Parks notes that steel will last longer than the wooden posts.

During the last two weeks, Parks' crew has been replacing tie racks in the large stock barn during months when the grounds aren't being prepared for the fair. Because wind has been uncooperative, the fair has been postponed.

live lately, Parks has spent valuable time clearing brush and pulling branches from the grounds. Parks plans to change the training and improve the training setup at the grounds. He has run a new power line into the grove where machinery will be displayed this year. Next week Parks will begin work on the race track in the arena. He will total $4,000 plus entry fees. Parks expects about 100 cowboys and then it is hurried to work the rodeo.

The rodeo is approved by the Rodeo Cowboys association. Parks plans to have horse racing and cow eating on the afternoon of Sept. 4 and 5. On the afternoon of Sept. 6, he plans to have an auto thrill show for entertainment. Siebrand Brothers carnival will be set up on the grounds. Premium money totals $12,000 for the Twin Falls county fair. The pre-

Life in MAGIC VALLEY

Mrs. Cleve Boos, 712 Broadway, Buhl, has been collecting flower vases as a hobby for the past 50 years and has approximately 850 vases, with no two alike.

They are all colors, sizes, shapes and descriptions and range from one-fourth of an inch in height to 20 inches. Mrs. Boos says more than half her collection has been given her by friends and relatives. She has vases from India, Japan, China, Italy, Belgium, England, Germany, Mexico, Korea, Hawaii and also a vase from every state in the United States.

In her collection, she has a vase 3,000 years old. The Chinese vase was sent by a cousin who received it from an old Chinese woman. The vase is nine and a half inches tall and has various colors throughout and design, which change with the type of the day. If it is cloudy the colors are dull, if sunny, the colors are bright. Pictured on the vase is the genealogy of a Chinese family. The life is pictured beginning in the clouds, then come the younger years followed by the mature years, which grow into a large tree with a lot of branches. Each branch symbolizes a branch of the family.

The vase is priceless. A young Chinese man has a vase exactly like it, which is sealed in a case and placed in his safe window. He told her he believed she is the only American to have such a vase collection. No one could purchase one.

Among her possessions, she has a vase which has been in the family for 450 years. It is a small white vase with gold trim and has a central scene painted on it. A vase belonging to her husband's family is 300 years old. His ancestors brought it to "Magic Valley" from a land east, when they crossed the plains.

Mrs. Boos told of a friend in the service stationed in Hawaii, who purchased a vase but was afraid to send it in the mail because of breakage. He carried the vase with him from camp to camp and finally made it back to the United States with the vase all in one piece. When he finally examined it he found, "Made in California" stamped on it.

Mrs. Boos likes to attend auctions and rummages through antique shops for her vases. She has three large china chests and a large trunk full and has never broken one. Incidentally she has two children and six grandchildren and one great-granddaughter.

Mrs. Boos says she likes the vases but says Mrs. Boos won't trust him to dust them. Mrs. Boos has no particular favorite vase. She says any one who would like to see her collection is welcome to come to her home.

Wheeler McGILL, PAUL, retired in June after carrying the mail for 15 years. He started his career in the postal service in July, 1919, as the postmaster at Paul and on Nov. 1, 1941, became a mail carrier.

McGill was a farmer before he became a mailman and preferred to be outdoors carrying mail, rather than in the postoffice building. His route was 36 miles long when he started it and now covers 55 miles. His patrons have doubled on the original route.

McGill says that the winter of 1940 and 1941 was his worst experi-

Fire District Board Meets

SHOSHONE, July 26—Members of the north Shoshone fire district met Thursday night at the home of Louis Pace to discuss business of the district.

In addition to Pace members of the board are Russell Kelley and Keith Jackson. The district was formed early this spring following many years of planning and work toward the goal.

Present arrangements for handling fires in the district are made through cooperation with the city of Shoshone. A truck was sent into the city's crew can be sent into north Shoshone with the contract calling for payment of about $100 plus wages to the firemen for the calls.

The present contract will continue until enough tax money comes in to purchase equipment for the newly formed district.

To alert the fire department, citizens of north Shoshone rural fire district are reminded to call "Ricker 6-2222."

Date Changed

SHOSHONE, July 26—A recent meeting of the Methodist church commission on education decided to resume Sunday school at 9:45 instead of 10 a.m., as has been the custom recently.

Mrs. Howard Hill was elected secretary of the organization. Rally day was fixed for September 7. The group decided to promote the Sunday school rather than have a vacation Bible school. Mrs. Donald Handy and Mrs. S. M. Hall were hostesses.

PERT, Payette, Twin Falls, RICHFIELD, Jerome, SHOSHONE, Wendell, Gooding and Fairfield.

Menard was first settled in the early 1900s and many who attended the reunion went to the Menard school. The old wood frame building is used now only as a polling place when there is an election.

Mrs. Rebecca H. Tracy, SPRINGDALE, who celebrated her 50th birthday anniversary in April with an open house at the home of her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur York, has received word that a son, Brian Scott Tracy, was born July 15 in the West Virginia general hospital to Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Tracy. The new child makes her 14th great-grandchild and her 22nd direct descendant.

Mrs. Tracy, who is the mother of 13 children, eight of whom are still living, has 81 grandchildren, and five great-great-grandchildren. She helps with the housework, has excellent eyesight and hearing and does fine needlework. She seldom misses church.

Former and present residents of the MANARD area south and east of FAIRFIELD in CAMAS county, held a reunion and picnic dinner July 18 in the east park in GOODING.

One hundred and twenty persons registered and there were almost that many children. Thomas Behrman and his son, Gooding, sang and played the electric guitar. Mrs. Elva Olson and her daughter, Vanita, TWIN FALLS, David Williams, JEKESIE and Annell Behrman, Gooding, sang selections. Everett Cox, WENDELL, gave a reading.

Among the oldest members present were William Packham, and Mrs. Elizabeth Robinson, Fairfield, and Jim Dixon, Gooding. Bales represented included California, Utah, Montana, Oregon and Idaho. Twins included Idaho Falls, Boise, RU-

"Do We Care Enough to Act?"

Accident experience over the past two years for clues to the prevention of future accidents.

1. Let us examine present traffic regulatory legislation to determine if present laws and penalties are adequate.

2. Let us examine present law enforcement with the purpose of determining if it is as strict as it should be.

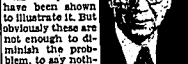

3. Let us seek and welcome constructive suggestions from any source for making driving safer in our community, county and state.

4. With all of the products of the above research in hand, let us proceed to devise a clear and logical system of action between residential and business areas, between farm and market areas, between communities.

Any such system will certainly involve a network of "through" streets and roads. These will need to be located at regular intervals and protected by warnings and stop signs or lights. Inherent in the plan should be a complete and uniform use of stop and regulatory signs. Painted pavement warnings properly located ahead of every stop sign would seem to be advisable.

A serious attempt should be made to improve visibility at all intersections. Prohibiting parking within 30 feet of any street or road intersection would seem essential.

I often hear the traffic problem summarized with the words, "No-body cares." I am sure that this is not a true analysis of the situation. Almost all of us care. What is most needed is that we care enough to act. It is not a minute too soon to begin to enact the changes in law and procedure which can be expected to radically reduce the number of automobile accidents in our area. Let us prove that we do care enough to act.

50th Anniversary Events Discussed

KING HILL, July 26—Members of the King Hill Grange discussed plans for a 50-year celebration to mark the beginning of King Hill in 1900, following a suggestion by Karl Anderson at the Wednesday evening meeting at Grange hall. Master Lynn Shurman presided.

Rodney Rubery announced that Elmore county Pomona Grange has been invited to the Gooding Pomona Grange picnic Sunday at the park in Wendell. Mrs. Terrell Foster announced a birthday and home products picnic Aug. 27 at Timbers Park, and Mrs. Rubery announced the progress achievement program of the Grange as completed except for a CARE package. Members voted to send the package.

Kenneth Jones was elected to membership. A delayed Father's day program was presented by Mrs. Earl Woodward and Mrs. Foster gave readings. Mrs. Woodward and Mrs. O. E. Spence served refreshments.

Adopted were the procedures of business in the state Grange and amendment of the trailer brake law. Rejection of the Grange were the consolidation of the highway districts and the fish and game department resolutions. The resolutions were presented by Frank Atkins, chairman of the committee.

MAGIC VALLEY PORTRAITS Leo Anderson Finds Much Pleasure in His Work; Likes to Help People Along

LEO ANDERSON

Some people still work for the pleasure they derive from their labor, and Leo Anderson, Twin Falls, is one of that group.

As president of the First Federal Savings and Loan association for the past two and one-half years, Anderson says he gets "much pleasure and satisfaction" from helping local people get started in this world.

He has been with the company he now heads since 1921, that time assets were about $200,000. A recent financial statement shows assets near 17 million dollars.

Anderson is a native Idahoan who "wouldn't live anywhere else." He was born to Mr. and Mrs. Melton Anderson in Oakley March 16, 1907. He came to Twin Falls in 1922 and finished high school here in 1929. During those three years he worked his way through school by selling the Times and the News and by working in a grocery store.

He never knew he'd ever be in the banking and loan business at that time. "I didn't even know much about the business," he recalls.

Anderson does remember he liked business courses more than others in high school. He specifies short-hand, typing and bookkeeping as his favorites.

Since he excelled in these subjects, Anderson got a job with a title company immediately after graduation. He worked for both title companies. "I got out of high school Friday night and went to work Monday morning," he says.

Anderson stayed with title companies until 1928. For two years he was deputy county treasurer, and recalls, "I got a lot of experience out of that."

—Just then, he accepted a position with the savings and loan company. Anderson worked for an accountant, then for a manager, and finally for the First Federal as assistant secretary.

Gradually he worked his way up the ladder, becoming secretary, manager and then president. He held the manager's job for 10 years prior to his appointment as president.

When Anderson started he "did everything but the janitor work." Specifically he mentions his stenographic and bookkeeping duties, since there were only two in the office at that time.

Looking back, he notes Anderson "I wouldn't do anything else as a profession—if I had a choice." He calls of his "great joy in helping people start homes."

Anderson's thinking on buying homes seems to have been with him before he entered the loan business. He bought his first house prior to marriage to Mary Ramsey in 1929.

"Owning your own home is always a good idea," explains Anderson. He wanted to be sure he owned one before being married.

One possession he didn't have before getting married was a car. He feels that houses come before cars at least for him.

Anderson remembers his size in high school as being only 4 feet, 10 inches. "I thought I'd never start to grow," he says, "today in is a medium-sized man."

He lives with his wife and one of three daughters on an acre at 1444 Falls avenue east. Anderson is a "do-it-yourself" man. He has traveled extensively, but lately he spends most of his leisure time in the yard.

When he goes fishing, he takes his camping equipment. "We used to have a cabin at Warm Springs," he says, "but a snow slide came in the roof, so we gave it up."

Anderson is a past member of the Chamber of Commerce board. Other than his home activities, he has little time to engage in outside affairs. He was president of the State League of Savings and Loan several years ago.

He enjoys ball games and fights on television, but he claims his greatest enjoyment comes from his loan business.

Put Them Away Too Many Children Are Killed by Home Poisons

EDWIN J. JORDAN, M. D., Editor for NEA Service.

They are still for too many accidental deaths of children from poisoning lying around the house.

A colleague has recently written me but only the other day he received a public letter from the mother of a 2-year-old child who had accidentally given oil of wintergreen instead of cough medicine to the child.

Oil of wintergreen, which is a toxic compound related to aspirin, is most commonly used in creams designed for external application for the relief of minor aches and pains.

The oil, however, is not so safe as such preparations are. Indeed, there are approximately 15 deaths each year from accidental poisoning caused by oil of wintergreen and most of them in young children.

There is a move on hand now to get such preparations labeled poisonous even if this is done, the operation of parents and others necessary.

One should be careful to keep such preparations—and all others might cause trouble to children—in a medicine closet which is locked or in a place which is out of reach.

There are also too many poisoners from other salicylate preparations and many narrow escapes. It is apparently natural for small children to swallow what comes into their reach, and therefore aspirin

Herman Marich, who last year brought shivers of gleo from the youngsters in the audience with his skating ball, this year skates as a polar bear and also as a space man.

Doug Duffy, another famous professional skater, has added a new comedy act.

Local audiences are taking the most delight of all, however, in the First Piper number in which almost all of the tiny children of Ketchikan skate as mice or village children and follow the Piper, played by Lois Knickerbocker, about the ice.

The children are members of the children's classes and have weekly group instruction for a very small fee under the Sun Valley skating school.

Although the ice carnivals are scheduled for every Saturday from now until Labor day, the children's number, because of the tender years of two mice, goes on only every other week. It is scheduled next Saturday night. The show starts at 9:30 p.m.

4-H Members Help Paint at Fairgrounds

Weeks are spent repairing and improving fairgrounds in preparation for county fairs. Three members of the 4-H club helped paint stock sheds at the Lincoln county fairgrounds at Idaho Falls. Season of Harvests, County Fairs and Rodeos Is Approaching Across Valley

For 4-H kids and so far as I know, this is the only one of its type around here's very successful.

Thus far about 12 youths have entered their stock and projects in competition. These are from the 16 4-H clubs in Lincoln county.

Parks mentions he has attended every fair held at the fair since the county started having the event in 1910. Parks has been secretary-manager of the fair for 27 years. Before that he showed stock himself.

Three counties in the valley will stage 4-H and FFA fairs. The largest of these is held in Shoshone. The Lincoln county fair will be Aug. 20 to 22.

Labor Day, Sept. 1, is the day set for the Minidoka and Blaine county fairs. The Blaine event is only tentative this far, but it will be held at Carey about that time. The Minidoka fair is set at Rupert.

The main difference between the types of fair, FFA and the other types of fair, is it is staged almost exclusively by youngsters. There is a women's section, and usually a small commercial division is shown.

Last year 3,000 attended the Lincoln county fair. At least that many are expected again this August.

Last week students from nearby 4-H clubs donated time to paint stock sheds. J. Howard Manning, county agent and general chairman of the fair, directed the painting.

The young people worked until they ran out of paint which was furnished by the Shoshone Rotary club.

The club's first club will paint the inside of exhibit buildings. Presently 16 clubs have the long narrow buildings for a string range.

"If we can get everything going," remarks Manning, "the county plans to erect a new 40 by 90-foot building by fall time." Should the exhibit be completed for the fair, Manning hopes to have more displays than ever before.

There are merchants and women's divisions, flowers and Orange displays and the exhibits and demonstrations by the young people at the Lincoln county fair.

Lincoln county has a rather unique way of paying premiums. Instead of listing definite awards for certain divisions and places, points are given. The winner and all places receive a certain number of points which are totaled for each 4-H member after the fair judging is completed.

Last year a blue ribbon winner received about 20 points for each point. Should 10 points be offered for first place, the student would automatically be assured of 15 when awards assembly time comes.

Lincoln county presents the premium awards about 2:30 p.m. on the final day of the fair. Students are given recognition for their work in a public gathering at the grounds.

Besides premium awards, special scholarships and awards are presented students by merchants, businessmen and individual citizens.

These awards are worth up to $25. The amount in premiums isn't known until budget money left from the cost of improvements and other expenses are totaled. This comes just before award time.

However, Mrs. Raymond Bernard, secretary of the county agent and of the fair board, expects about $300 in awards in premiums.

She says the fair is essentially

3 Resolutions Get Nod From Area's Grange

BURLEY, July 26.—Resolutions passed by the Deep Creek Grange were the amendment of the trailer brake law, procedure of business in the state Grange, and consolidation of the highway districts. The group voted to reject the fish and game department resolution, which asks payment for damage to private property by fur bearing and game animals.

Plans were discussed for a Grange picnic and a date will be set at the next meeting. The group also voted to clean the Grange grounds in the near future. Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Loughmiller and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Alachre, presented their resignation from membership. John Meyer received the grocery basket.

Fine day program followed the business meeting. An article, "United States Flag," was read by Mrs. Bertha Tiley and "What the Flag Means?" was read by Mrs. George Bennett. Mrs. John Meyer, lecturer, listed special dates to display the flag.

Mrs. Joe Kucera read an article, "Old Man." Mrs. Pearl Hill a poem on the "thinks a man won't touch." Homer White read an article on farm subsidies. The closing thought on "Friendship" was presented by Mrs. Meyer.

Lunch was served by Mr. and Mrs. W. E. McCoy.

4 Violators Fined By Burley Judge

BURLEY, July 26.—Police Judge Joe Weldon reports that four traffic code violators appeared before him during the past week.

Louis Long, Abilene, was fined $15 plus costs for operating a truck without a license to the port of 40 miles.

Officer Snyder also cited Juan Garza, Paul, for driving with no operator's license. He did produce an operator's license and was fined $10 plus costs.

Arthur C. Bergeron, Oakley, was cited by State Patrolman Dan Reid for the illegal port of 40 miles on a charge of failing to purchase a driver's license. He was fined $15 plus costs.

Lawrence M. Baxter, Lammam, Tex., was cited by Officer Snyder for driving with no license. He was fined $15 plus costs.

Cited but not appearing yet: George H. Hinton, Kimberlin, failure to register a trailer house; Bryce K. Tracey, Malak, on two counts, for operating a vehicle with no 1936 registration, and for defective equipment.

AWARD GIVEN

WENDELL, July 26.—Arlan P. Martin, fireman, submarine school instructor, was the recipient of a qualified submariner. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Hinton.

The award was made by the former Mary A. Newbrough, route 2, all Wendell. The emblem was awarded upon completion of a comprehensive on-the-job training course.

Premiums for the Cassia fair will total $10,000. The books were distributed last week, according to County Agent Glenn Bodily. Any one not receiving a book may pick one up at Bodily's office in the courthouse.

Price of Beef Only Slightly Cheaper

The price of beef cattle such as U.S. choice grade beef displayed by Phil Baker, shipping foreman for the Independent Meat company, Twin Falls, has declined somewhat in the last two weeks, but the slight drop hasn't reached the retail consumer yet. Two weeks ago a down trend started in the Midwest cattle markets. Since then, most prices for live animals have declined. The drop at the Twin Falls Livestock Commission company Wednesday sale has been about $2 per hundred pounds, says Ray McKintire, operator. Any decline at the retail level is expected to be slight. (Staff photo-entouring)

Sharp Dip in Beef Prices at Chicago Not Being Felt on Local Markets Yet

Cattle dropped as high as $11 on the Chicago market last week, according to Ray McKintire, jr., manager of the Twin Falls Livestock Commission company, but the drop doesn't seem to be affecting the local markets significantly.

The large drop on the Chicago market was for prime beef steers. There were smaller cuts in prime and heavy grades in midwestern cattle sales.

So far, however, these cuts have failed to make a large difference on the price of cattle throughout the valley, according to several sources.

McKintire doubts that the drop on any market except in Portland, Seattle, Los Angeles and Denver will make an important change on the local market.

He says lower qualities other than prime and choice haven't been cut significantly on any of these markets, and the lower qualities are what most farmers in Magic Valley sell.

McKintire adds, "If there's a continued drop in the market may be affected. So far, it's far from a national crisis."

The livestock dealer attributed the drop to a large quantity of animals being sold. Another cause is a consumer resistance to high prices, according to McKintire. This is attributed to unemployment trends, the resistance shows in hog and sheep markets also, the manager of the commission observes.

He explains the difference between the drop in prime and choice grades and the slightly lower to steady prices in other grades as brought on, by consumers buying more of the lower grades and leaving the difference in price.

According to McKintire and Edgar H. Olmstead, Twin Falls cattle buyer and seller, there is a shortage of cattle in the western states. As a consequence, Eastern and Midwestern shippers are selling part of their meat on the West coast.

McKintire notes it is cheaper to ship a dressed carcass than a live animal. Midwestern and Eastern cattlemen are sending dressed meat to the West, and the way they affect the local markets eventually follows. Olmstead feels the entire drop is only "temporary" and actually the looks for the market to "bounce back" a little.

Olmstead reported that the price of beef had been $22.50 per hundred pounds recently and that the drop had been only 15 cents thus far. He says, "It's a little bit of a drop, but nothing much."

He attributes the cut at the moment to a lack of buyers. "There are no good buyers unless there are some," Olmstead said. "There were no buyers."

Olmstead said the price was higher than it should be. "It's a little bit of a drop, but nothing much."

He says the cattle market is a temporary one and attributes the drop to the hot weather. He says fewer people eat meat during the hot months of the year.

Olmstead, jr., buyer for the Independent Meat company, says that Olmstead in the Twin Falls market has a lot of cattle in the Twin Falls market. He says out-of-state buyers are not doing as well as they used to. They could get meat almost as "close to home."

Florence labels the drop "competition," but says the price is "probably" only a temporary one. "Anything" happens on the market.

Prices this week at Independent were $1 per hundred pounds for wholesale dressed beef. The price was $1.10 for choice cuts. The price was $1.10 for choice cuts. The price was $1.10 for choice cuts.

The buyer claims there is "no or less a surplus of cattle here." He says the cattle market is a temporary one and attributes the drop to the hot weather. He says fewer people eat meat during the hot months of the year.

Besides Being Scenic, Fishing Is Good

Facilities at Stanley lake and many other Idaho waters are more attractive since fishing has been improved by rotenone treatment followed by restocking. Stanley is one of Idaho's most scenic lakes, lying on the eastern shore of the Sawtooth mountains with several miles of shaded shoreline accessible to the public. Fishing Better in Some 40 Bodies of Water in State Following Treatment

BY RUTH RHODENBAUGH
Fish and Game Department
Fishing is better in about 40 Idaho lakes, reservoirs, sloughs and ponds because of rotenone treatment. Rotenone is a natural plant product which kills unwanted fish and restocks the water with desirable species. It is used in the treatment of many bodies of water in Idaho. The treatment is done by dropping a small amount of rotenone into the water. The rotenone kills the unwanted fish, and the water is then restocked with desirable species. This process is repeated every few years. The treatment is done by dropping a small amount of rotenone into the water. The rotenone kills the unwanted fish, and the water is then restocked with desirable species. This process is repeated every few years. The treatment is done by dropping a small amount of rotenone into the water. The rotenone kills the unwanted fish, and the water is then restocked with desirable species. This process is repeated every few years.

Five salmon hatch, or (in a few cases) by removal from outside of recovery of survivors after the first treatment. About a dozen waters have been given a second treatment. By the end of 1957 this program had treated 45 bodies of water in Idaho, with a total of 10,254 surface acres. About half a dozen were limnologically suitable for warm water species, and were stocked accordingly. The rest have been stocked with trout, mostly rainbow and cutthroat. All of these programs were financed by state fish and game funds, until 1952 when Dillingham-Johnson federal aid became available for a limited amount of fisheries restoration work. The most success of this method has prompted many people to assume that the problem of non-game or unwanted fish everywhere can be solved by rotenone treatment. This, unfortunately, is not so. Many waters are too large, have too much current, or are otherwise unsuitable for this method. The "new wrinkle" being studied at present for treatment of these waters is partial removal. It has been known for a long time that ordinary "partial removal" of unwanted fish is ineffective, even when the removal involves tons of fish, as the remaining ones merely spread out and survive in their place. An excess of unwanted fish still remains, probably at the same level as before. However, it stands to reason that there must be a point at which really massive removal would be severe enough to tip the scales in favor of the wanted game species. At present, the department is conducting intensive experiments in massive partial removal of unwanted fish, especially of gizzard shad concentrations. Most of this year's rotenone work has been done in connection with this program. Other methods being tried include netting, trapping and draw-down of water to expose spawn. These and other methods are being tested to determine whether this type of operation can control unwanted fish populations in waters where total removal is infeasible. Both partial and total removal are designed to make fishing where there has been little or none, to give fishermen more places to go, and to give desirable fish more room and food to support a vigorous, natural fishery. And, probably best of all, they are designed to return many of our favorite lakes and reservoirs to the vacation season popularity and use they deserve.

Travels, Visitors Told in Heyburn

HEYBURN, July 26—Fred Zillie returned Thursday evening from a house where he was staying with his mother, Mrs. Nellie Zillie, who has had eye surgery at St. Luke's hospital. Mr. and Mrs. J. V. Lee are visiting their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Monte Lewis, Pocatello. Mrs. C. L. Prior and daughter, Joan, returned to Los Angeles yesterday after visiting Mr. and Mrs. Jack McDonald and Mr. and Mrs. James McDonald in Burley. Mr. and Mrs. Harold Hurst and family spent Thursday in Boise taking a drive where they attended a Hurst family gathering at Cottonwood canyon.

Principal Burley Streets Get Facelifting

Burley's two principal streets, which do double duty as highways, have been far worse than now, but by fall they will be "a sight or better" than any city streets. Some are in plans for curbs and gutters as well as gravel are hauled in preparation for surfacing. A celebration is planned when the projects are finished. (Staff photo—engraving)

Street Projects for Burley Might Give Tourist Impression City Lacks Paving

A tourist passing through Burley for resurfacing highway U. S. 30 and Highway 27. The highways intersect in the heart of the city.

Since the first part of April, the two main streets through Burley have been without blacktop. It was at that time construction was started.

is concentrated the center of the construction. The city of Burley has grown significantly in the last eight years. In 1950 there were 5,956 persons living within the city. According to Mayor Fred Anderson, "We estimate conservatively it's over 7,000 now. Most of the increase has been in the last two years. There has been little change and construction during this growth. This summer, however, the city has broken out all over with improvements. Like a child breaking out with the measles, it's been 'coming out,'" says Mrs. Fred Anderson, executive secretary of the Chamber of Commerce. It all started with the state highway department moving into Burley to resurface about five miles on the two highways. With the streets already torn up, many business and individuals decided to take advantage of the situation and began to improve property. In addition, the city and the Chamber of Commerce were enthusiastic about "reimodeling" parts of Burley, and picked in to help. Besides the state highways contract to the Del Homes Construction company, Fred Hurst, the city of Burley let a contract for paving alleyways, residential streets, curbs and gutters, driveway aprons, and storm sewers to Olaf Nelson Construction company, Legon, Utah. The two contracts total $120,000—$50,000 to Holmes and $70,000 to Nelson. As a result, a person driving through Burley receives the impression something such as a cyclone has struck the area. As one city councilman stated when construction first began, "We're going to take a lot of imagination to see what it's going to be like." The city contract calls for 80,000 square yards of asphalt paving; 80,000 square yards of concrete; 100,000 square yards of curbs and gutters. There will be about 74 blocks of curb and gutters included in the construction. The city calls its part in the construction an "improvement district." Salmon notes "practically all" streets will be paved when construction is completed. Edna continues should finish about the same time. According to contract agreements, the construction could last until October. However, both the city officials and the construction companies think final work will be completed about Sept. 15 at the latest. "The city and Mrs. Anderson are pushing toward Sept. 1. Unless unforeseen troubles arise, the job may be done at that time. Both Holmes, co-owner in the construction company, reminds people that the construction was delayed by rain earlier in the summer. If it hadn't been for the loss of two or three weeks then, the blacktopping would be under way by now. Holmes says prime will be put on next week and the lot plant will see.
